Our services include:

- Drilling of one or more boreholes of various depths, depending on the size of your heat pump.
- Installation of 1 ¼" looped polyethylene pipes necessary to transfer the methanol, ethanol or glycol for the heat exchange process.
- Installation and pressure testing of the pipes connecting the building to the well(s).
- Filling in of the outside of the well with filtering gravel, silica sand or grout, for a proper temperature exchange between the ground and the pipes.

With the well-known quality of our work, our reliability and our expertise, our clients know they can trust Brewster Well Drilling for their geothermal project.

We are convinced that you will be more than satisfied with our work.
